

BIOFILMOGRAPHY

Natalia Cabral & Oriol Estrada

Natalia Cabral (Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic) and Oriol Estrada (Capellades, Catalonia, Spain) are award-winning filmmakers whose work live on the borderlines of fiction and nonfiction. Graduates of the prestigious EICTV Cuban Film School, Natalia and Oriol found Faula Films in 2012 in order to provide a creative platform for the development and co-production of independent filmmaking in the Caribbean.

Their debut documentary feature film “You and Me” premiered at Visions du Reel and won several awards at Cartagena IFF, Trinidad & Tobago IFF, Havana IFF, Márgenes, Austin and Santo Domingo, among others. Their second documentary film “Site of Sites”, supported by DOCTV Latinoamérica, premiered at IDFA – International Documentary Film Festival Amsterdam, it was presented in the US at the Neighboring Scenes Showcase of the Film Society of Lincoln Center, was official selection at Biarritz, Cartagena and Lima, and was listed as one of the 35 best Latin American films of 2017 by Cinema Tropical.

They are currently working on the completion of “Miriam Lies”, their first feature film, co-produced with Spanish arthouse production company Mallerich Films Paco Poch, supported by FONPROCINE, IBERMEDIA and Tribeca Latin America Fund, and distributed internationally by Latido Films sales agent company. The project was selected and awarded in Ventana Sur’s First Cut and Guadalajara Construye and was finalist in the Unproduced Script Contest at the Havana International Film Festival.
